Robert Schumann (1810–1856) was one of the most important German composers of the 19th century. Although Schumann dreamed of becoming a concert pianist, he injured his hand. After that, he turned his full attention to composing. Schumann married his piano teacher's daughter, Clara, the first highly regarded female concert pianist. She helped spread Schumann's fame, playing his works across Europe.

Soldier's March

from Album for the Young

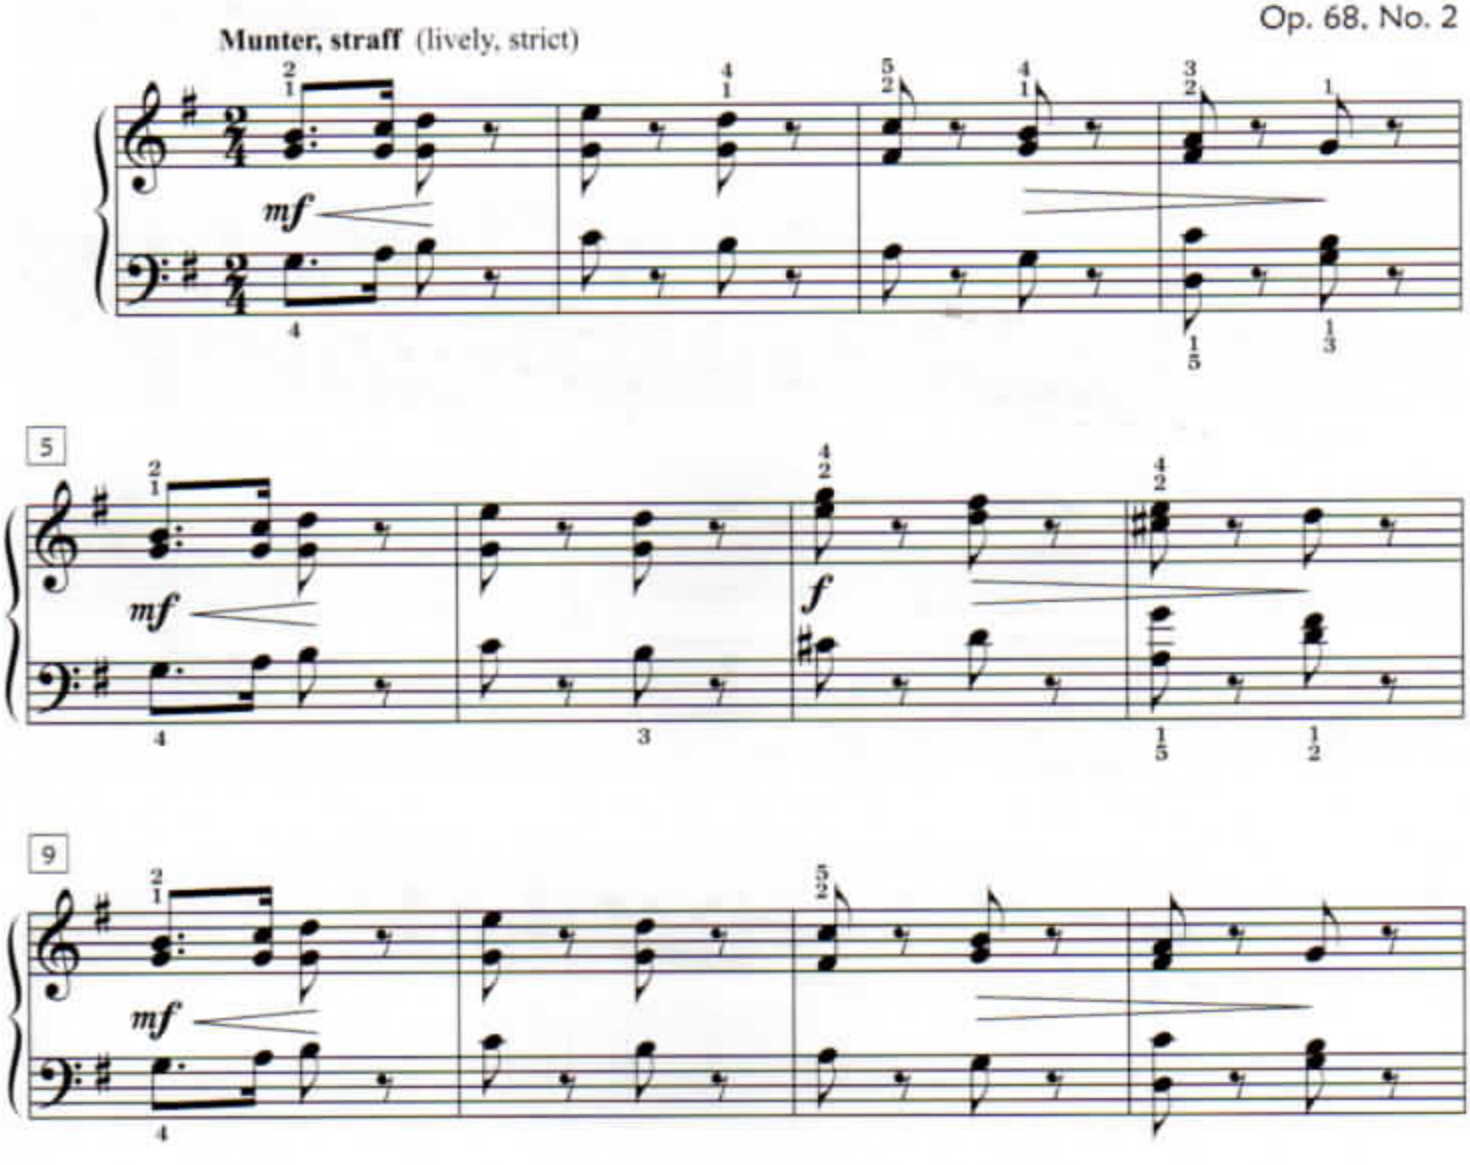
CD 17/18 GM 9


Robert Schumann
Op. 68, No. 2